1.The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 10 and 11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over the admitted prior art as generally set forth in paragraph 1 of the previous action with these additional comments.

Applicant has amended the claims to recite that the number of molders is 2 or greater. However, page 4, lines 22-23 clearly show that it has been contemplated to use two or more substrate molding machines—however, the number of dye machines in this case is said to be 4 or more. As noted in the previous action, the exact number of dye machines per molders would certainly have been within the skill level of the art so that the dye coaters and molders are used as effectively and economically as possible.

2.Applicant's arguments filed March 27, 2006 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. Applicant's comments are essentially directed to the instant invention making an optimal use of the machinery at hand, so that the machinery does not lie idle during the processing cycle. As applicant should be well aware, this kind of optimizing usage of available machinery is simply too well known in industry to make its usage patentable in the instant environment, regardless of the particular reasons why such is advantageous. In other words, one of ordinary skill in the art, assessing the time the machines are used (ie, cycle time) and usage demands on the machines, would have been readily able to optimize the required number of dye and molding machines needed and hence the instant relationship between them.

3.THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
